

The Bark

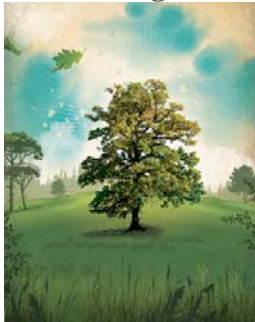

TreeLink News ~ April 2008

In This Issue

- TreeCanada
- Eco-Philanthropy
- Quotable
- Shade Crusade

The Giving Trees

By Sharon Levy

New science explains how forests could help save us from global warming.

For some people forests are measured in board-feet of lumber.

For others they're a source of spiritual renewal. But scientists are finding that protecting ancient trees could also be an important new strategy in the fight against global warming.

Quick Links

- TreeLink
- TreeBank
- Foo Fighters

Join Our Mailing List!

TreeCanada's Booth at The Foo Fighters Show in Ottawa, ON.

Pictured: Michael Rosen, Andrée Rosen and Jade Lemieux-Leclerc

Success of Eco-Philanthropy Depends On How Money Is Spent

By Rachel Oliver

(CNN) -- If the excessive lifestyles of the rich have been partly to blame for destroying the environment, then it seems equitable that they use their money to preserve it. But the degree to which they are actually helping does largely depend on what they do with their money.

Quotable...The best friend on Earth of man is the tree. When we use the tree respectfully and economically, we have one of the greatest resources of the Earth. -- Frank Lloyd Wright

Ultimate List of Tree Quotes

Shade Crusade: Why City Trees Are Good Medicine

By Sandra Hines

Seems like everything and everybody is going green these days. But where is the green going? American Forests, a Washington, D.C., nonprofit, found that America's largest cities have lost